FROM THE DESK OF HON. SECRETARY, VES

Rev. Fr. Abraham Joseph

The last two years have been a roller coaster ride for most of us, and needless to say, even more so for our students. Yet, they have bounced back with a vengeance and shown immense resilience to emerge stronger and wiser with their experiences. They are aligned and more adaptable to uncertainties and determined to achieve their career goals and carve a niche for themselves. This is evident in the expression of their thoughts in the newsletter. This form of the newsletter is indeed heartening, and it gives me immense pleasure to witness the special bond that our students share with each other, as well as with the faculty and their beloved institute. May this bond become stronger with each passing day and our students continue to create special memories, achieve milestones and cherish them in times to come.

FROM THE DESK OF EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

Nothing can pause the creative expression of a human being – not even a virus that dangles like a sword wreaking havoc and destruction, nor a lockdown that extends beyond anyone's expectations, creating uncertainty, and making people question the very concept of 'normalcy'. After a forced hibernation, which led to self-introspection and a metamorphosis of one's thought process, our students have resurfaced with greater vigour, zeal and enthusiasm than ever before. This is clearly reflected in their active participation in events on campus, and also their writing and ingenuity in various forms of art. We are delighted that the tradition of the newsletter continues despite challenges, documenting yet another year of yet another batch of our beloved students who make IIBM the vibrant place it is.

FROM THE DESK OF IN-CHARGE DIRECTOR

Dr. Susy Kuriakose

It gives me great pleasure to write a few words as prologue for our in-house college newsletter 'IIBM Chronicle'. A Newsletter is like a mirror which reflects the clear picture of all sorts of activities undertaken by an Institute and develops writing skills among students. It is exclusively meant for bringing out the potential writing talent as a part of overall personality development. Each article is entertaining, interesting and absorbing. I applaud the contributors for their stimulated thoughts and varied hues in articles contributed by them. The wide spectrum of articles gives me a sense of pride that our students possess creative potential and original thinking in ample measures. Commendable job has also been done by the Editorial Board in planning for and producing the Newsletter. My congratulations to the team who took the responsibility for the arduous task most effectively. I congratulate all the contributors and the editorial board for bringing out such an outstanding newsletter.

FROM THE DESK OF JT. DIRECTOR

Dr. Suseen Varghese

CSR @ IIBM

Indira Institute of Business Management has tied up with Rotary, the world's largest NGO, to form the Rotaract Club of IIBM, in an effort towards selfless social service, which is a part of the ethical and moral development of our future managers. Under this banner, various activities are organized, aimed at inculcating social sensitivity in students, and making a contribution towards the betterment of society.

BLOOD DONATION CAMP

The club conducted a blood donation camp, under the Rotary Club of Navi Mumbai, in association with Navi Mumbai Municipal Corporation. This was preceded by poster-making for persuading people to donate blood in an attempt to create awareness of the importance of blood donation in saving lives of countless people without any monetary liabilities. Thirty four units of blood were collected as students and staff came forward to donate blood, and the authorities appreciated the noble gesture by awarding the Club with a certificate.

EYE CHECK-UP CAMP

The Rotaract Club conducted a free eye-check up camp after the pandemic, since the continuous exposure to the screen had had a detrimental effect on the eye sight of countless students. The camp included a session by Dr. Shalini Kaul, Director Saraswati Netralaya, where students were guided on how to care for their eyes. Around sixty students and staff members availed of the free eye check up, of which eighteen needed intervention and rectification for issues such as refractive error, topography, presbyopia and Diabetic retinopathy screening.

The event ended with the graduates throwing their hats in the air and posing for photographs, celebrating the milestone moment that would become a lifelong memory.

How do IIBM students feel about the semblance of normalcy in their lives once again, and about resuming offline classes? Let us read their views to find out!

March 2020 was the year which no one saw coming, bringing with it a wave of destruction. The whole world went numb under lockdown; people were scared and anxious as we had no idea how long this would stay. We were locked in our home 24*7, but still some of our parents were going to their offices as they were government employees. We used to wait for them till evening to come home safely. But nevertheless, this was the time when people actually started spending more time with themselves and their family members.

I remember when the lockdown started, LUDO game got so much hype because it all started with “Chal na let's play something, but kya kare?” “Aayee! Ludo khelte hai na, hum log bhi khel rahe hai itne din se!” And then my brother and I used to invite our friends to join us as well, and this so-called fun game started to turn into a war as we used to make secret teams. We would then decide on who would kill the other player and who would save the other person on purpose. This was an everyday thing to do now, but again we got over it because, “Ab strategies pata chal gayi thi sabko sabki”.

My mom, dad, grandmom, my brother and I used to watch so many different shows, and would hear the tales which my mom and dadi started to tell us. Before that we actually never had this much time to hear about what they did when they were young. We used to snack on things which my mom used to make from scratch (bread pizza sandwich, homemade dumplings, samosas and, much more). On weekdays when my dad used to come home from work, he used to bring as many snacks as were available in the market. Mom used to keep the snack bag in our balcony for at least 5-6 hours and then used to sanitise each packet, and wipe it with a wet cloth. I am sure everyone would have seen their moms do this during lockdown because we were so scared to touch anything which used to come from outside.

Once, my brother and I were craving pani-puri so badly but the puris were not available in the market. And the same evening, out of nowhere my mom made pani-puri at home with the two chutneys. OH MY GOD!! I still remember that feeling - it was such a happy day for me and my brother because our mom didn't even tell us that she was going to make it. That day, we had pani-puri as an evening snack as well as our dinner. This memory will always be special for us as we can now look back and say “Yarkitnakhush hue the na hum pani-puri keliye”.

– Smita Rupesh Kasare (FYMMS)

Probably for almost two years we were locked inside our houses or our local areas; we were giving online exams which in short term looked good. We were relaxed that we did not need to study much, but traditional offline exams certainly have their benefits in long term. Now it feels nice to be back to our energetic selves on campus. Personally, meeting your friends face-to-face was something we missed, but now the good times are back, the canteen talks are back, our classroom lectures are back where we tend to spend most of the time sleeping, but that's what we missed badly in the last two years. I am grateful and feeling blessed to be back to the Campus.

– Atharva Dhuri (FYMMS)

I am happy to return to the campus. Distance learning was hard, working with computer caused pain in eyes and fingers. I could understand the online lessons, but it was easier when we had face-to-face meetings with the teachers and better learning process.

– Saloni Sawant (FYMMS)

Last year, we had not met our batch mates at all since everything was online, which made it difficult to have any kind of interaction with our peers.

We got introduced to many of our classmates when colleges reopened before the Diwali break; hence, meeting everyone again after the vacations was a different kind of excitement.

– Sakshi Sakpal (FYMMS)

I am excited to be able to meet my friends and teachers. Online classes are too boring and I was waiting to meet teachers and friends, play and chat with them in person.

Due to lack of physical classes, some parents are also worried about hesitancy being shown by their wards after staying away from physical classes for so long.

– Prachiti Mainkatte (FYMMS)

Caged in the safest four walls of our house for two years, we were excited for the offline lectures. We were happy to see the faces behind the voices we heard in the online lectures. The offline lectures as expected were overwhelming. The lectures became interesting as now it was interactive, more focused and had a personal touch. The assignments, presentations became more challenging, leading us to a professional world. It was all rainbows and unicorns till the semester exams studies hit us. We all faced difficulties while writing the offline exam after a long duration, but still gave our best. Even though the transition was difficult we would not trade it for anything else.

– Jeena Biju (FYMMS)

So full of energy and high spirited were we when we came to know that we would be going back to the campus for our lectures after two long years of online learning. From meeting teachers one-on-one to meeting our classmates, the experience was both special and surreal, as this campus life was something that we were missing sitting back at our homes. Initially it was a bit tedious to sit focused on an offline class for hours without any distractions or mini breaks that we were prone to have during our online classes, but with time we got settled and adjusted with sitting for longer hours, submitting assignments and also making presentations. Although this might be a bit exhausting currently but this is what we were missing from our homes.

– Rishika Shetty (FYMMS)

The University's top priority is the health and safety of all of our students, faculty and staff. Safety plans and protocols have been in place since the beginning of the pandemic and are continually enhanced as part of our COVID-19 response.

We remain flexible and responsive to evolving public health guidance as we return to campus life and community. Also, it emphasizes how important it is to be physically present in the classroom, to interact with friends, and to share opinions about different subjects with each other and with their teachers.

– Pranit Shinde (FYMMS)

College has been a safe space where I am the most “me.” I would wake up much happier. I had confidence in my routine, and I was surrounded by friends who made me feel excited to start the day. With online learning, I just carried on about my day with no specific emotion.

SUITS – SURE TO SUIT YOUR WEB SERIES CRAVINGS

Well, if you are in for a witty, wise with words, thrilling, humourous, legal drama kind of serial then this is definitely the one to watch. Harvey Specter and Mike Ross, protagonists of the plot, will blow your mind with how they solve their cases.

One of my favourite quotes from Suits:

“What are your choices when someone puts a gun to your head?”

“What are you talking about? You do what they say or they shoot you.”

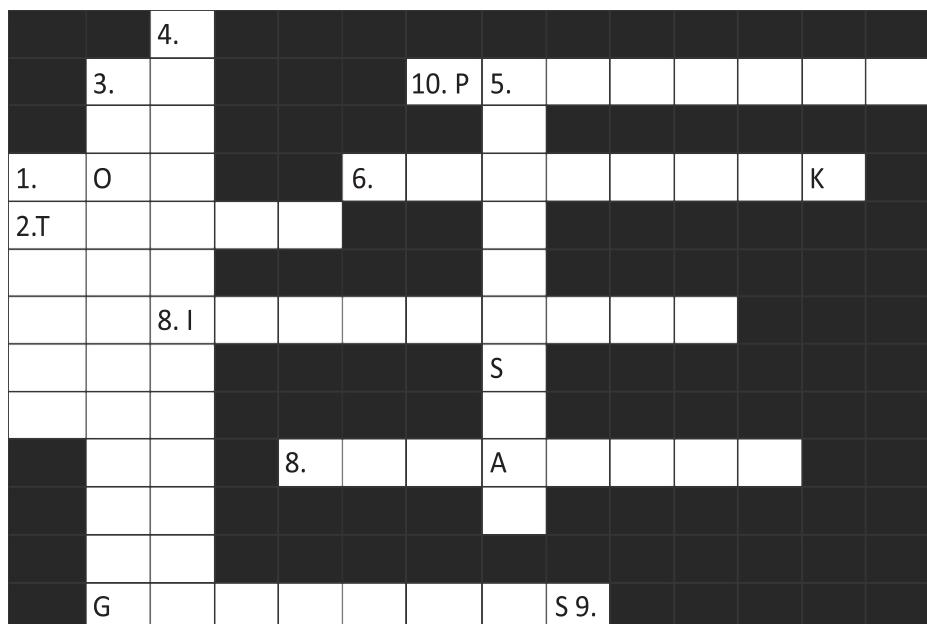

“WRONG. You take the gun, or you pull out a bigger one. Or, you call their bluff. Or, you do any one of a hundred and forty-six other things.”

SUITS is one of the best series I have ever watched. The storyline is just fantastic and every single actor has done a brilliant job, though Harvey Specter (Gabriel Macht) was my favourite. The series is about an American law firm, Pearson Hardman in New York City with most talented lawyers helping their clients resolve almost impossible issues and win cases. Maybe in the beginning you may find it difficult to understand about law firms and its technicalities, but once you get the momentum, it is amazing! Also, it doesn't fail to entertain you. Just be patient for first few episodes, and the rest will be history.

SHAYARI

किसी ने कहा है मुझसे, पढ़ लिख कर क्या कर लोगी॥
 कौन सा चाँद ज़मीन पर ला दोगी, करना तुम्हें घर का ही काम है,
 यही तुम्हारी पहचान है॥
 यकीन करना मेरी इस बात पर, क्या खूब जवाब दिया, उसी की बात
 पर।
 बाते करते हो, बहुत बड़ी बड़ी, तुम्हारी खोपड़ी तो, खाली पड़ी,
 मुझे चाँद नहीं, एक सितारा बनना है,
 मुझे खुद को ही नहीं, औरों को भी चमकना है॥
 लाना ही है जमीं पर, मैं सितारा ले आउंगी॥
 अपनी इस रोशनी से, चाँद तो क्या? दुनिया भी चमका जाउंगी॥
